THURSDAY EVENING DEC. 14, 1887.

The Expenses of the House.

Gen. Davis' excellent newspaper, the Doylestown Democrat, in its usual pungent style, points out some of the features of our "rather expensive" state government. No less to the point than the extravagance in the executive departments is the waste that goes on in the legislative departments, where a host of supernumerary offices have been created for year to year simply to provide for "party workers."

Mrs. Labouchere has gone, but Fredrick Gebhardt still holds the fort. It was another field day for the bears in the oil exchanges, and the crop of shorn lambs has materially increased since last report.

The divine right of kings to hold the nozzles of a line of hose at a fire may be questioned, but the spectacle of the young ruler of Spain employed in such exorbitant employment, seems to indicate that the effete monarchies of the old world are becoming gradually repudiated.

FROM WHAT THE ASTRONOMERS TELL US OF THE VARIETIES OF VENUS IN HER RECENT TRANSIT ACROSS THE SUN'S DISC we begin to believe the ways of the planet are scarcely less erratic or inexplicable than those of the not very reputable goddess of whom she is a namesake. The men of science are sorely puzzled about a new "spot" which some of them saw during the recent phenomenon and until its nature is determined the rest of mankind will live in an atmosphere of anxiety. Let us know what it is.

THE body snatching business is becoming quite too numerous. The exposure in Richmond can hardly add to the horror which has been inspired by the events laid bare in Philadelphia; but it does show that the crime of despoiling the sepulchre is not circumscribed in its boundaries, but has grown to proportions of which the public at large has no idea. The application of the rigors of the law in all their severity is looked for, and it is hoped the prompt punishment of the offenders may serve to put a stop to the business.

THE veteran statesman of England, William Ewart Gladstone, celebrates the fiftieth anniversary of his entrance upon the public service, and the event is very appropriately made the occasion of congratulations and kind words on all sides. Gladstone's has been a notable figure in the theatre of the world's politics, and however much people may have at times differed with him, there have been few unwilling to concede his intellectual mastery and the force of character that have been conspicuous in all his undertakings.

THE pastor of a Presbyterian church in Pittsburgh has considered it necessary to renege with some of the members of the church on account of their habit of beer drinking. Instead of receiving the rebuke meekly and promising to mend their ways, the beer drinkers, it is said, have resolved to resist all attempts to discipline them, on the ground that it is not wrong to drink beer. If an attempt is made to settle that question, the result will excite great interest. Probably opinions will differ as widely as they sometimes appear to do on the question whether beer is intoxicating.

THE scene which is used in the first, second and fourth acts of "Young Mrs. Winthrop" at the Madison Square theatre is constructed of wood and brass. The material was cut by hand in India for Louis C. Tiffany & Co., who imported it. In India, this material is used for decorating rooms dedicated to special ceremonies. The walls and ceiling of the scene at the Madison Square theatre contain over two hundred oriental designs. Its full beauty can only be appreciated by a minute inspection through an opera glass. It shows the kind of house decoration which the more wealthy are now introducing in New York city homes.

Following His Own Judgment. The New York Sun is disposed to shake its head over the tidal wave governors-elect of New York and Pennsylvania, who do not seem likely to meet its views in their staff appointments. Just what Governor-elect Cleveland has done in this way to offend its sensibilities we do not know, but the particular thing which Governor-elect Pattison has done wrong in its judgment, is in the selection of Mr. Cassidy for attorney general, that gentleman being deemed by the Sun to have had in the past a too strong affiliation with William H. Kemble, et al. omne genus. There seems to be quite a difference of opinion as to the supreme happiness of Mr. Cassidy's selection for the attorney generalship, but as Mr. Pattison's preceptor in the law it is quite natural that the governor-elect should select him for the chief legal appointment under him. No doubt he realizes the responsibility upon him for a proper selection for this important office, and if Mr. Cassidy in his judgment is the proper man for it he is right to appoint him. He ought to follow his own judgment in this as in all other matters, being first careful to make it up honestly. If his judgment is bad, the result is bad, of course, and if the Sun thinks so, it is warranted in having a lessened opinion of the man; but if he had no judgment of his own, and permitted that of others to guide him, it would be worse still, and he would be even less worthy of esteem. A governor and every other public officer ought to do his duty according to his own judgment; be the results to the public will generally be better, as well as the results to himself. In this matter of Mr. Cassidy's appointment there are, as we have said, diverse opinions expressed by divers men. It is not one that we would have made, because we know other lawyers in the state whom we think better fitted for the office. But we do not know Mr. Cassidy probably as well as Mr. Pattison ought to; and above all we are not responsible for the appointment.

CONGRESS proposes to build a new library building. We incline to think that Congress does not need it. Our representatives have enough to do, if they attend to it, without reading many books. If they want them to enable them to cram speeches, we are sure that the public good will not suffer if we do without the speeches. The wants of the country are not to be discovered in the books in the congressional library. The reading our congressmen need to do is that of the public sentiment. Newspapers are not always very instructive reading, but a discreet perusal of them will enable the legislator to get valuable information to guide his course. So the letters he gets from his constituents are not always very valuable, but yet proper attention to them will enable the wise representative to guide his feet in safety. A great library in Washington is no doubt a very pleasant and valuable thing for its citizens and for people of literary tastes, who have not much business on hand. But our representatives ought to be too busy to be able to enjoy its treasures; and as they are not useful

WILD WESTERN WAYS.

TWO REMARKABLE SCENES IN COURT.

LAWYERS engage in Frenzies—A Juror Who Approached—A Faithless Wife's Punishment—The Teacher's Home-life. In the early part of last week, Mrs. Alice W. Slayback, widow of the late Col. Slayback, brought suit against John A. Coker, the slayer of her husband, for $5,000 damages for depriving her of her husband. The suit was not brought merely for procuring consideration, but more for the purpose of making public the real facts of the late colonel's death, his friends not being satisfied with the way the case was disposed of. Mr. Coker killed the next day published in his paper, the Post Dispatch, a bitter card, charging the proprietors of the St. Louis Republican with being responsible for all his troubles, alleging that they had urged the friends of Colonel Slayback to take this step. During the taking of depositions on Wednesday in this suit, John M. Glover, the lawyer who published the card calling Slayback a coward, which led to the tragedy, was interrupted while giving evidence by Frank Bowman, Mrs. Slayback's attorney. Bowman and Glover seized Bowman by the throat and bore him to the ground before the bystanders could respond to the under man's cries for assistance. The notary before whom the depositions are being taken, threatened to send both lawyers to jail for contempt. The more the widow's civil suit advances the more interesting become the revelations of discord among her legal advisers. Frank Bowman is out to day in a card in which he calls L. D. Seaward, the lawyer who used to be associated with him in the civil case "a liar."

A Juror Approaching Counsel. During Mr. Trude's speech in the case of Teresa Suria, on trial for the murder of her lover in Chicago, there was much sympathy manifested in the court-room, and it is close to the appearance was loud and hearty, one of the jurors joining in it. Realizing his improper conduct he covered his face with his hands and displayed great embarrassment.

BROKEN MARRIAGE VOWS. An East St. Louis Scandal—The Punishment of a Faithless Wife. The people of East St. Louis and Belleville, Ill., are greatly agitated over a scandal affecting the wife of W. D. Ucer, postmaster of the Cairo Port Line railroad, and William Ucer, a prominent banker of Belleville. A few days ago Ucer received a letter from some unknown source, which cast suspicion upon his wife, and he hired a private detective to shadow her. Tuesday this detective came to his hurriedly and told him that his suspicious wife had been found at the same time taking him to a house where he said he could find his wife. The husband knocked at the door and called on those within but received no answer. He then kicked the door open when he was confronted by a man with a revolver who told him not to advance. Ucer coolly told the man that he did not come for blood, but simply to identify the occupants of the room, and walking forward he found his wife. He left the house with a woman and went to his home. Several hours later, after dark, there was a ring at the bell and going to the door he found Mrs. Ucer on the steps. He asked her what she wanted. She was crying and said she wanted to come in. He told her that she should enter the house, but that they must always be together, and that he would try to take care of the children and to teach them to forget their mother. The woman pleaded hard for forgiveness and against being turned into the streets saying she had no money and no place to go to sleep. He opened his pocketbook and gave her all the money he had, quite a sum, bade her good-bye and closed the door.

The School Teacher's Home-life. Young Loase, who, with John Hayes, was killed by his teacher, W. C. Frazier, at the district school at Pleasant Hill, Ohio, has died from his injuries. Hayes, the young man who was killed instantly, was 20 years old and fully as large as the teacher, who is 23 years old. The latest accounts say that the teacher, Mr. Frazier, a few days ago, while at school, and several others to study grammar, and that Hayes refused to get a book. On Monday Hayes got into a quarrel with Frazier, over the question, and in the struggle which ensued it is alleged that Hayes pushed Frazier down and that he and young Loase then began beating their preceptor in a brutal manner. While Frazier was on the floor he drew a knife and stabbed the boys, Hayes ran for the door and fell dead on the steps, and the other scholars carry the dead boy home and then all besmeared with blood, gave himself up to the justice of the peace. He broke down completely when news reached him that his pupil had been killed. The school is claimed to be a hard one to govern, and it is claimed that the pupils made arrangements last Saturday to whip Frazier. Frazier is a nephew of Hon. Judge Frazer, Cambridge.

CRIME AND CAUSALITY. The boiler in Johnson's saw mill, three miles from Mission, Kansas, blew up yesterday. The proprietor, W. L. Johnson, and his wife were killed. The cause was P. M. Turner was yesterday at Atlanta, Ga., convicted of the murder of John E. Shuttles, at Greenville, sentenced to be hanged February 9th next.

The trial of James Reilly for the murder of his brother-in-law, J. Desmond, was ended last night at New York by the jury disagreeing. They were discharged.

Last Friday night two men rode up to R. J. Greer, who was standing in a store where he was employed, in Tallahassee, county, Missouri, and demanded the key of the safe. He replied that he had no keys, whereupon they shot him down and then rode off.

John Craig has surrendered to the authorities of St. Scholastica, Quebec, accusing himself of having inadvertently killed William Armstrong, aged 19 years. Craig was courting a lady who disliked him. In revenge he shot at and missed her, the bullet striking Armstrong, who was near by.

The collision and a ballast train on the main street of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad collided yesterday a few miles from Elliott City, wrecking the ballast train and damaging several freight cars. Geo. Ross, engineer of the freight train, was badly scalded, and H. B. Lockhart, fireman of the same train, had one of his ankles hurt.

PLEASANT TURNER'S ADDRESS TO THE GUESTS—The Wife's Anguish. About a year ago Pleasant M. Turner and John E. Shuttles had a difficulty at Greenville, Ga., and the latter on the day of the occurrence, Turner shot Shuttles in the back and killed him. The trial came up ten days ago and has ended with a verdict of murder. The murderer was sentenced to be hanged on February 9. The court room was crowded to hear the trial and he had anything to say why sentence of death should not be pronounced upon him. With considerable emotion he replied: "I have but a word, and I say it in the presence of the people, that the great injustice existing against me has caused the truth to be suppressed. Thank God I bear

ANOTHER DROP IN OIL.

OPENING OF GRAND "GUMBER."

FOREIGN MARKET. Oil is a Day—Clever Manipulation of the Grand Opening—The Market's Downward March. The utmost consternation prevailed in oil circles on Wednesday over the striking of the Grandin well in Forest county; the well was nearly completed last August; but the discovery being anticipated that it would prove a profitable one shut down on top of the oil bearing sand until they could sell enough oil to make a fortune out of it, as they have done. One firm, Davis & Murphy, of Philadelphia, is said to have sold 1,500,000 barrels short in anticipation of the opening of this venture. It is understood that the owners—Messrs. Grandin & Kelly—had also sold a considerable amount short. Everything then being in readiness, the well was drilled to the sand on Wednesday, a wholesale rush was made to sell, and though the market closed firm the previous night at $1.08, the first sales yesterday were made at $1.02, from which, in ten minutes, the market dropped to 92 cents. Recovering it again broke to 89 cents and closed at 87 cents. Several heavy failures are reported, but the most of them will compromise with their creditors and be allowed to continue business.

It is reported that other new wells in the vicinity of the Grandin well, which Grandin & Kelly well is located, will be opened soon. The Reno oil company's well, near Foxburg, which has been reported dry, is rumored to be producing over 800 barrels. As the character of this production is supposed to be similar to that of the Grandin well, it is believed that it will exercise any lasting effect upon prices. Though temporary in influence it is a matter of great uncertainty and apt to cause a market panic.

A dispatch from Pittsburgh says: The bottom was knocked out of the oil market by the bearish reports from the Grandin well, near Balltown, Forest county. In August last this well was drilled into the sand and plugged. Tuesday the plug was removed and the well began to flow at a tremendous rate. In twenty-two minutes sixty-five barrels belched forth. Tank connection was then made and the drill pushed further into the sand, increasing the production of the well materially. This unexpected news had a depressing effect upon the market, and the bears commenced unloading. The opening sales were made at $1.03, 1/2 cents lower than Tuesday's closing prices. The market gradually weakened, the closing transaction being at 93 cents, 15 cents below Tuesday's closing quotations. Many lumps were completely shorn. During the day telegrams were received from the Grandin stating that the well was flowing at the rate of 1,200 barrels a day. In the first 100,000 barrels were put into tank. This well is the largest producer struck since the famous flowers were born in Cherry Grove. Although there was great excitement all the exchange in the region and in this city, no serious failures were reported. Several heavy operators, however, are known to be badly embarrassed financially.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS. Events Across the County Line. A permit has been issued to begin work on the new high school building in Reading. The Coyle murder case, transferred from York to Adams county, will be put on trial February 5.

The Dauphin county teachers' institute begins its annual session at Harrisburg on the 18th instant.

The Harrisburg school board suspended a lady teacher for that city for slipping a scholar with unnecessary severity.

John Little, a mason, was killed at Ladsburg, Chester county, by the falling of an old wall which he was engaged in repairing.

The trustees of the Harrisburg cemetery have inaugurated a movement to repair the damage and prevent further desecration of the property.

Solomon Shearer, of Vinomont, Berks county, manufactured 7,000 gallons of grape brandy, which he has at present 20,000 stalks of celery stored away.

There are upwards of 500 paupers in the Berks county almshouse. Of eighty-one persons admitted during the month of November only eleven were Americans, and at least seventy of them are able to earn their bread.

From ten to thirty, or rather an average of fifteen, cars of cotton, thirty-five to forty bales per car, pass through Harrisburg daily from the South, consigned to Jersey City, where the cotton is distributed to the various eastern mills.

The annual meeting of the State Surveyors' association at Harrisburg has come to an end without the body transacting business of importance. The association will adjourn at Harrisburg on the second Tuesday in February next.

Gov. Hoyt, at Harrisburg, Wednesday heard argument for and against the granting of a charter incorporating York as a city of the second class. The bill is based on the grounds that the people had voted for it in a fair election. The opposition took the position that the election was illegal, that the ballots were not numbered and the proclamation for election was not published in the York papers. The governor reserved his decision, but it is known that the charter will be granted by him.

ORANGE BLOSSOMS. A Fiancee's Wedding in Maricotta. The marriage of Mr. Z. W. Keller, of Mount Joy, to Miss Cassie R. Ziegler, daughter of Mr. Samuel Thuma, was solemnized at the residence of the bride's father, West Main street, Marietta, Tuesday evening. Long before the time set for the ceremony a throng of guests had arrived, and by 8 o'clock the room of the residence were well filled. At that time the sweet strains of a wedding march led the bridal party put in their appearance. First came the bridesmaid, Mr. W. Long and Dr. J. P. Ziegler. Then followed the bride, Miss Mary Emmert of Philadelphia, who was neatly dressed in a dress of garnet silk. She was escorted by Mr. E. K. Cassell, of Mount Joy. Miss Thuma and Mr. Keller followed. The bride wore a gown of garnet silk with a spray of orange blossoms on her breast. When the party reached the parlor a semi-circle was formed around the young couple who were united in marriage by Rev. James C. Wood, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of that place.

Among the witnesses to the happy affair were two gray-haired ladies, Mrs. Mary Bennett, of Columbia, and Mrs. Thuma, of Marietta, grandmothers of Miss Thuma. After the marriage every one packed up packages of presents which were abundantly supplied for the occasion. The presents were numerous and elegant.

Mr. Keller and his wife took the midnight train at Mt. Joy for a trip to places to be named. It is almost needless to say that the happy couple are the recipients of many kind words from their numerous friends.

ASTRONOMICAL SCIENCE.

The Recent Transit of Venus—Proposed Observations on College Hill.

Prof. J. E. Kershner, professor of mathematics in Franklin and Marshall college, returned from Yale college on Sunday last, having been invited by that institution in making observations of the transit of Venus, which took place on the 6th inst. The observations at the Yale observatory were different from those of any other college in this country. They were made with a heliometer, and the object was, not to note the times of the entrance and exit of the planet, but to measure the distance between the centre of the planet and the centre of the sun at different points during the transit. One hundred such measurements were made. From these measurements the chord, made by the planet in crossing the sun, will be determined, and on this basis the calculation of the distance of the sun will be made. Prof. Kershner is entrusted with making these calculations. It will be a long and somewhat arduous task. The heliometer at the Yale observatory is the only one in this country. A company of German astronomers from the university at Bonn, had a station at Hartford, Conn., and Prof. Kershner visited them and spent several days with them. By invitation they also visited the observatory at Yale, where they were entertained by Prof. Waldo.

Dr. Waldo, who has charge of the observatory at Yale, and who visited the Franklin and Marshall some time ago, in order to request the assistance of Prof. Kershner, spoke in high terms of our young professor's ability in his department, and his skill in the practical work of the observatory. He made the remark that he had a promising future before him, if our moneyed men will provide him the necessary instruments to work with.

We understand that an effort will be made among the friends of our college to purchase a telescope, a transit instrument, chronometer, clock, and if possible a heliometer, and place them in an observatory to be located on the beautiful campus of Franklin and Marshall. The expense will not be very great, and it is believed the friends of college will respond to the call. The college is in a prosperous condition, both as respects the attendance of students and its finances. It only needs a step forward now in the advancement of its scientific department, and the cause of education in our best colleges in the state. Such a movement will enlist the interest of educators and scholars in our own community and an astronomical observatory, with all the requisite appliances, on College Hill would increase the efficiency of the college and the cause of education.

POLICE CASES. What the Magistrates Found to Do. Joseph Griffiths, who stole a robe from in front of Kreeker's store and a lap blanket from Schaeffer's, had a hearing before Alderman Alex. Donnelly at 11 o'clock this afternoon and was committed to await trial for larceny. The defendant, dark complexioned, had on when arrested, been identified as one he stole from W. G. Patton of Columbia.

Mayor MacGonigle had nine cases to dispose of this morning. One drunken and disorderly man was sent to jail for ten days; one vagrant was sent to the workhouse for 30 days, and seven travellers, who had sought shelter in the station house, were discharged.

Algerman Samson sent Benj. F. Davis, a drunken tramp, to jail for ten days; Harry McCormack, a boy who is suspected of tapping tills at the Northern market, was held for a hearing.

On complaint of Albert Miller, of West Hempfield, Miller Reese was arrested on suspicion for larceny. The case was heard by Alderman McCormack. McCormack testified that on the first Thursday in November, he visited Reese's saloon and bought two cigars, giving Reese $10 in payment; that Reese kept the bill and gave him no change, and when he returned to the door and out of the saloon, he carried away a small amount of property. The alderman returned the case to court.

THE GIBSON FIER. Lancaster Men Lose Nothing. In publishing an account of the burning of the Gibson distillery and the U. S. bonded warehouse No. 1, situated near it, at Gibsonville, in Western part of the state, by which 4,000 barrels of whisky were said to have been burned, it was stated that S. Clay Miller, of this city, was a loser to the amount of $1,500 or $2,000 on whisky stored there. A letter from the Gibson to Mr. Miller, proves this statement to be incorrect. Mr. Miller's whisky was removed from No. 1 warehouse a short time ago, and is all safe in warehouses Nos. 4 and 5, so that he loses nothing. The latest advice states that the total loss by the fire is 3,700; that it will take about one year to put the distillery in good running order, which will be equivalent to the loss (in production) of about 15,000 barrels. But as the six bonded warehouses that escaped destruction during the fire contain 40,000 barrels each—240,000 barrels in all—aggregate it is not likely that those who prefer the Gibson brand of whisky to any other will suffer much for want of it during the coming year.

THE RAFFLING MATCH AT WEMMERSDORF. The raffling for the mammoth hog "Jumbo" at Wemmersdorf is still in progress. About $500 were realized for the hog, when the following prizes were a given, viz: First prize, mammoth hog, "Jumbo," 21 prizes, $50 in gold; 34, $10 in greenbacks; 4th, $20 in silver; 5th, $20 in silver;
